

Liberian corporations have been used internationally since 1948, making the Liberian Corporate Registry one of the oldest corporate jurisdictions with global presence in the offshore corporate services industry.

Advantages of Liberia

- 70+ year history — commercially tested jurisdiction; one of the most common uses for Liberian corporations is asset holding, including the ownership of real estate and commercial vessels
- Worldwide recognition for professionalism and expertise — not considered a 'tax haven' by many international communities, including the United States; unlike similar jurisdictions, Liberia is NOT listed on the U.S. Department of State's 2015 International Narcotics Control Strategy Report (INCSR) as a "jurisdiction of primary concern or jurisdiction of concern for money laundering"
- WHITE-LISTED jurisdiction by the OECD (Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development) and is currently undergoing its Peer Review
- The non-resident corporate registry is administered by a US-based, privately owned corporation, LISCR, LLC, with regional offices located world-wide
- Provides one exclusive registered agent, The LISCR Trust Company, for service of process for all non-resident business entities. Other services traditionally handled by a Registered Agent can be offered by professional service providers, thereby eliminating the need to have a physical presence in Liberia
- Authorizes both natural and corporate directors, officers and shareholders of any nationality
- No requirements for filings of the names of directors, officers, shareholders or minutes in the Public Register; No annual reporting or audits

- Provides same-day incorporations as a standard option
- Authorizes dual language filings
- Offers apostilles for issued filings, certificates and certified copies
- Adopted the Electronic Transactions Law in 2002, enabling entities to conduct international business using electronic communications and transactions. This development paved the way for Liberia's use of an electronic Register, a secure, web-accessible data network, which facilitates the prompt and efficient formation of entities and the filing and issuance of documents from its worldwide network of offices – 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Corporate clients have access to eCorp®, a web-based application providing online access to the Registry to form new corporations and manage existing corporations, obtain Certificates of Incorporation and Certificates of Goodstanding, reserve names for new corporations, generate and review statements of account and pay fees
- Permits management of corporations anywhere in the world
- Not a banking and financial center;
- Permits free redomiciliation to Liberia
- Exempts nonresident corporations from taxation in Liberia
